HOLIDAY TRAVEL LOOKS DIFFERENT THIS YEAR

Tips for a safe travel journey

We know that there are people who will be traveling throughout the holiday season. If you do need to travel, remember that there are things you can do to keep health and safety top of mind for you and all those around you.

1. Remember the three “W’s”:
  - Wait 6 feet apart when possible (this includes when around close friends and family);
  - Wear your mask – again, even around friends and family who are not in your immediate household; and
  - Wash your hands often.
2. Remember that airplanes have excellent air filtration systems that significantly help decrease the risk of contracting Covid-19 (read more here). However, most other places do not have such systems. The CDC recommends that if you choose to gather with friends or family during the holidays, keep gatherings small. Visit outside, if possible; or, open windows and doors to increase ventilation.
3. During your travel journey, use touchless technology as much as possible. And consciously avoid touching your face or your mask. Use hand sanitizer before you touch your eyes, nose or mouth.
4. Avoid hugs, handshakes, or other physical contact with anyone outside of your immediate household. Find other creative ways to share the joy of the holidays.
5. Be kind to each other, and especially to those who are working to help provide a safe and healthy travel experience. The frontline travel workers are heroes in our book – the housekeepers, gate agents, restaurant workers, public safety officers, rental car agents, flight crews and more.

TRAVEL WITH EASE

TSA encourages enrollment in TSA PreCheck®

The Transportation Security Administration (TSA) launched a new “Travel With Ease” campaign to encourage airline passengers to enroll in TSA PreCheck® prior to their holiday travel. The campaign reinforces the concept that TSA PreCheck benefits may be more relevant today than ever before because it allows travelers to return to travel with greater comfort, convenience and the least amount of physical contact.
